COURT IS ASKED FOR CUSTODY OF GRANDDAUGHTER

An Orttanna R. 1 woman is seeking custody of her granddaughter from her daughter according to a petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed with the Adams County court.

The petition, filed by the law firm of Brown, Swope and MacPhail for Zora Slaybaugh, Orttanna R. 1, asks custody of Mrs. Slaybaugh's granddaughter, Dorothy Elizabeth Slaybaugh.

According to the petition Mrs. Kathryn Elizabeth Slaybaugh Sheppard, Biglerville R. 2, on September 1, 1948, turned custody of her child over to her mother, Mrs. Slaybaugh.

Kept Child Ten Years
The grandmother raised the child, cared for her and kept her for the next ten years.

On April 13, 1958, Mrs. Sheppard, according to Mrs. Slaybaugh's petition, removed the child from the grandmother's home, without the consent of Mrs. Slaybaugh.

Mrs. Slaybaugh claims that she has asked her daughter to return her but that "she refuses."

Mrs. Slaybaugh's petition alleges that Mrs. Sheppard is "not a fit mother."

The court set May 21 at 1:30 p.m. as the time for the rule it issued today to be returnable.

Welcome signs in Chinese adorned the doors. Overhead a crepe paper sky filled with stars covered the ceiling. Japanese lanterns and live dogwood trees were other decorations. Crepe paper resembling stones were placed around the walls of the gymnasium and atop the "wall" were cut-out potted plants.

Gettysburg Is In Full Bloom

Gettysburg is aflame with color.

The season of blooms is in full sway and this historic community presents a beautiful picture of a wide variety of flowers.

While some of the flower beds grace the front yards of many homes a majority of blooms are to be found in the back yards. Motorists will do well to drive the alleys as well as the avenues and streets if they wish to see these beautiful flower gardens.

Not only are the blooms plentiful in town but along the Fairfield and Emmitsburg Rds., along Herr's Ridge and other areas.

Among the many blooms are Tulips, Geraniums, Petunias, Iris, Lilacs, Tamarack trees, Pansies (Johnny Jumpups), Candytuft, Azaleas, Mountain Pink, pink and white Dogwood, Wild Apple (pink), Japanese Maple tree (red), Japanese Quince, Coleus, Columbine, Spirea, Lilies of the Valley, white and purple Violets and others.

Caged Lion In Washington Zoo Mauled Girl To Death

WASHINGTON — A 2½-year-old girl visiting the zoo with her grandfather was seized by a caged lion and killed Friday.

The lion pulled the screaming girl through the bars of its cage, despite the grandfather's frantic efforts to save her, and tore her to pieces.

The little girl, was Julia Ann Vogt. She and her 4-year-old sister, Judy, had come here with their mother from Chilliwack, British Columbia, to visit their grandfather, Harry Jackson.

Friday being a fine day the grandfather took both girls to the Washington Zoo. Apparently Julia Ann wandered through an opening in an outer barrier and got too close to the lion's cage.

In State Of Shock

The grandfather was in such a state of shock that he was unable to give a coherent account of what happened, and as far as police could determine there was only one other witness.

This was Wesley Dildy, 12, who was visiting the zoo with a group of other schoolchildren from Prin-

General Stackpole Speaks

He then detailed, with the aid of maps the day by day disposition of troops enroute to Gettysburg. Lee at one time had his army divided into four separate units, "a suicidal dispersion," but Lee apparently knew his man and Hooker did not take advantage of the dispersion of the Confederate troops.

General Stackpole described the first day's battle here. The battle actually was well underway, he said, before the commanders of the two armies realized that the Battle of Gettysburg was to be fought.

"Lee was the first to grasp the realities of the situation and arrived relatively early on the field. Meade did not arrive until midnight. The Union army at Gettysburg had seven commanders during the first day's fighting, culminating with the arrival of Meade.

SOCIETY BANDS FIND WAY TO TOP OF RECORD LISTS

By HUGH MULLIGAN

AP Newsfeatures Writer

Playing dance music for people who hate to dance has long been a survival formula for the leading society dance bands across the country, enabling them to co-exist with every major dance craze from the black bottom to rock 'n' roll.

Whether it's a Princeton prom, an Atlanta cotillion or a posh Newport lawn party, the musical menu is always the same: liberal portions of Berlin, Rodgers and Porter, served with gusto in a bouncy two-beat that makes the old kick up their heels and the young feel even younger, despite the vintage melodies.

Waltzes, tangos, sambas are all belated in the same democratic beat, faster than a fox trot and just a shade slower than a can-can.

Little Known Before Hi-Fi

The aim of the society band is to get everybody dancing and any interference, on the part of crooners, blues shouters or hip quartets is strictly considered bad form, old boy.

Prior to the advent of hi-fi, society band leaders like Meyer Davis and Lester Lanin were little known outside of the select circle in which they beat out their amiable two-beat. But now, smack in the middle of the rock 'n' roll frenzy, they've suddenly become big record sellers without altering their formula or tempo. Teen-agers, strange to say, are among their biggest fans. Elvis may be the most, but Davis is the most-er and Lanin, at the moment, the most-est.

Has Best Seller Album

Lanin, whose Epic album "At The Tiffany Ball" is a best seller throughout the country, is more or less the General Motors of the society band business. It is the Philadelphia Mellons, the Newport Vanderbilts and the New Jersey Whitneys all gave parties on the same night, Lanin would be more than equal to the challenge. At his call are some 500 musicians, formed into 25 units ranging from a 60-piece orchestra to a 3-piece combo, and all playing his smooth, distinctive beat.

Meyer Davis, famous father of famous world citizen Gary Davis, operates in a similar fashion, with numerous satellite bands carrying his name and jive style into the nation's most exclusive salons and ballrooms. His latest album, also a big seller, is "On With a Big" (ABC-Paramount).

Have 20 Songs On A Side

Both Lanin and Davis bring the same mass production methods to their very listenable albums, offering as many as 20 to 25 different tunes on each side. Except for an occasional chorus by the already over-worked band, there are no breaks for vocals.

Out on the West Coast, from San Francisco's Fairmont Hotel, Verve Records has recorded Ernie Heckscher and his orchestra in a tune-fest, danceable album called "Dance Atop Nob Hill." Again, there are no vocals, but the beat is fast and catchy. Heckscher, like his Eastern counterparts, whips up enough music to fill an entire dance card, some 34 songs ranging from Irving Berlin's "Alexander's Ragtime Band" to Cole Porter's "I Got a Kick Out of You."

DRINKING NOT DIVORCE CAUSE

A stubborn and drinking husband is not a ground for divorce, the Adams County court held today in an opinion handed down dismissing the divorce action brought by Mildred Wilson Creager, 106 E. King St., Littlestown, against Mervin E. Creager, 234 York St., Hanover.

The court held that "the state is an interested party in every divorce action and a divorce may not be granted merely because of incompatibility of the parties; it is necessary to prove that the defendant has been guilty of conduct which the legislature has seen fit to make grounds for divorce. If it is desirable to liberalize the divorce laws that is a matter for the legislature and not for the courts."

"The plaintiff's major complaints are that the defendant drank to excess and this caused her great mental anguish and he was stubborn and would not do what she wanted him to do." The court held "while the fact that a person is drunk is no excuse for improper conduct, it is clear that mere drunkenness is no ground for divorce."

According to the opinion "We have no doubt that the plaintiff was unhappy and the general situation caused her great distress. But the record fails to show that this was caused by indignities on the part of the defendant."

Mrs. Creager, according to the opinion, is now 58 and Mr. Creager is 73. The couple was married September 13, 1936 when Mr. Creager was a widower with three children. Mrs. Creager had not previously been married.

INTERNATIONAL SPEED RECORD IS SET BY YANK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nine days after a Lockheed F104A Starfighter flew the highest, another Air Force plane of the same type flew the fastest.

The Starfighter — the famous "Missile with a man in it" — Friday set the second international record of the month: a speed mark of 1,404.19 m.p.h.

Earlier a Starfighter set an altitude record for conventional aircraft of 91,249 feet.

The speed mark was set by Capt. Walter W. Irwin, 34, over the Mojave Desert some 65 miles north of Los Angeles. He followed the exacting rules of the National Aeronautic Assn., which is submitting the new record for official world-wide recognition.

7½-Foot Wings
The Starfighter, with wings only 7½ feet long, is an operational fighter. Both Captain Irwin and Maj. Howard C. Johnson, 38, who set the altitude record, are members of the F104A-equipped 83rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base, near San Francisco.

On his record speed run, Captain Irwin flew twice through a 10.1 mile speed trap at 40,000 feet. The record was the average of the two trips, one downwind, one upwind. Captain Irwin was in the air only 20 minutes, requiring about 20 seconds to set the record. But it took four hours to process, analyze and tabulate the data before the speed record was certified.

of July 1, Cpl. Hodges, one of the pickets, saw hazy figures approaching. He notified fellow pickets, went forward, found Confederates advancing, a few shots were exchanged and in a few moments the first units of the advancing armies were engaged.

"The Confederates came on Herr's Ridge and pushed the Union line back. The Confederates, cut off from knowledge of the Union movements by the absence of Stuart's cavalry, did not know they would meet anything but some Union Cavalry units."

"By 8 o'clock that morning the Union forces were outnumbered 7 to 4, but Buford's dismounted cavalry, with Seminary Ridge giving them a commanding position, was to hold up the Confederates for two hours while other troops arrived."

"Buford's success in detaining the Confederates had brought about the Battle of Gettysburg. The relative small units that had started the fight were augmented by others and we have the scene of the two armies racing to come into position."

"At one time during the first day the Confederates outnumbered the Union troops by 10,000. By the end of the day the numbers were about even. By the end of the battle the Union forces had 100,000 effective here and the Confederates 70,000."

"The battle continued along Cemetery Ridge and Oak Ridge north and west of the town until about 5:30 o'clock on the evening of July 1 when the Union forces retreated through to the heights of Cemetery Ridge."

REPORT DOGS KILLED COW

The dog law enforcement officer, James McDowell, is planning to make another attempt to secure the last two of a band of wild dogs which killed a cow and calf last month at the farm of Quinton Baumgardner, Fairfield, R. D.

McDowell said today that four of the six animals believed to have been in the pack have been shot. Baumgardner saw the animals when they brought down the cow and calf, killing both, but was unable to shoot any of the six dogs.

The next day when McDowell arrived to investigate, McDowell and Baumgardner were enroute to the dead cow and calf when they found a white dog, said by Baumgardner to be one of the pack, attempting to kill another calf. Baumgardner shot the dog. Since then McDowell has shot three more of the animals believed to be part of the wild pack in the mountains near the Baumgardner home.

McDowell also reported being called twice because of abandonment of dogs. The farms of both Clarence Ketterman and Robert Sheely, adjoining on Biglerville R. 2, have had "gifts" of unwanted dogs, the dog law enforcement agent said. Neighbors saw the dogs being left by passing motorists. McDowell warned that prosecution will be brought against persons abandoning dogs and said that if persons wish to rid themselves of dogs they should call him or the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

McDowell also reported bringing a charge of having an unlicensed dog against John Walters, Gardner's R. 2, before Justice of the Peace Ellis Stine. Walters, he said, paid a fine of $10 and costs of $9.

Everyone knows you can't stop a car on a dime.

But do you realize just exactly how far your car does travel before it can be stopped? "It's a lot further than you may think," the National Safety Council says.

Tests show it takes the conditions, about three-fourths of a second to react to an emergency and hit the brakes.

At 15 m.p.h., in the time it takes to react, you've already traveled at least 17 feet — theoretically, over three six-foot-tall men. It takes another 14 feet — about two more six-footers — to bring your car to a halt. That's a total of five six-footers you've run over — and at only 15 m.p.h.!

Most motorists, though, don't drive quite that slow. Let's assume you usually whiz along at, say, 60 m.p.h. A pretty reasonable speed, you'd say.

Keep your eyes on the road and reach for a cigarette lighter. Put the cigarette in your mouth, glance down and flick the lighter. That flick and initial puff on the cigarette took about two seconds. During that time, you traveled at least 176 feet — more than half the distance of a football field.

If you saw an accident situation ahead after looking up and hit the brakes immediately, before you could stop your car would have traveled 366 feet further — equal to another football field and then some.

You trouble may not be lighting cigarettes. But everyone's distracted sometime or other by something in the car. Best protection is to be alert, and to hold down your speed so you do face a situation, you'll have time to stop safely.

If you do find yourself facing an emergency, you'll be better able to stop in time if your tires and brakes are in good condition. An emergency is no time for added problems. If, despite all your precautions, you find yourself in an emergency, remember this tip: Better that you head for the ditch than ram an oncoming car.

"Stay alert — stay alive," the council says. "Think ahead."

Death on the highway takes strange shapes — a dropped cigarette, a back-seat tussle among the kids, a drippy ice cream cone.

Unrelated, you say? Not so, the National Safety Council points out. They're all potential accident causes. How?

Well, the council says that while no official figures are available, many auto accidents are caused by just such other-wise harmless objects as cigarettes, children and ice cream cones.

"Distractions contribute to a great percentage of the nation's motor vehicle mishaps," the council says.

Let's suppose you're cruising down the highway at 60 mph and drop your cigarette. Take only four seconds to pick it up and you've gone the length of a football field — and then

French Premier Arrests Two Generals To Balk New Plot

PARIS (AP) — Premier Pierre Pflimlin used his new emergency powers today to organize a tough police regime to oppose any rightist move to seize power in France.

Some 35,000 police and special security troops patrolled Paris while special agents fanned out across France to arrest persons suspected of plotting to raise Gen. Charles De Gaulle to power. Two air force generals were among those reported arrested.

But while Pflimlin consolidated his four-day-old government's hold on continental France, the military-civilian rightists in Algeria who seized control of that North African territory Tuesday remained in undisputed control.

An all-Algeria insurrection committee met secretly in Algiers Friday night to consider the stalemate in which Pflimlin holds France and appears, for the moment at least, unable to do anything about the Algerian defiance, while the rebels in Algiers are unable from there to put De Gaulle in office.

There was no sign of the Algiers Committee of Public Safety backing down in the face of overwhelming Parliament support Friday night for Pflimlin. The committee was set up Tuesday under paratroop Brig. Gen. Jacques Massu after rioting against the possibility that Pflimlin would not be tough in prosecuting the 3½-year-old war against Algerian Moslem rebels.

The French government has let it be known that plotting by rightists to seize power had been reported since the last government fell April 15. The plotters apparently planned to win the army's support behind De Gaulle as a military dictator.

Whether this plot was developed with the knowledge of De Gaulle, France's World War II resistance hero now in retirement, was not known. De Gaulle's only statement has been a cryptic announcement that he holds himself ready to take over "the powers of the republic."

In asking for the 90-day emergency powers, Pflimlin issued an open challenge to De Gaulle to explain whether he would agree to march to power with the aid of a coup. The general remained silent under the watchful eyes of police.

"THE ESSAY"

Of all the forms of writing, the short essay to me is the most interesting. We have to seek out Montaigne to give credit for giving the essay a new face, and perhaps a great deal more, for we go back to him and relish his unique manner of writing, so personal and unashamed that you immediately join with him as a friend! His first essays came out in two volumes in 150, but you read him as of the present because of his humanness and frankness.

A few of our modern essayists whom I have enjoyed are these: Alexander Smith, who once wrote that the only immortality he coveted was "to be occasionally quoted!" I am sure his wish has been granted, for he has been, and is, often quoted. His essays, written nearly a hundred years ago, are as fresh and inspiring as though they had been written today. His best book, "Dreamthorp," is a classic.

Christopher Morley, who recently died, was a charming and beautiful writer of essays as well as poetry. It was as a poet that he hoped to be remembered, but I am of the opinion that he will long live as a delightful essayist. He was a glorious human being and he was greatly beloved. I owe thanks to him for many a great book suggested by him as one worth while to read.

Other interesting essayists whom I have loved are E. V. Lucas, William Allen White, William Lyon Phelps, Ben Hur Lampman, W. H. Hudson, Lafcadio Hearn, John Muir, and Max Beerbohm. There are scores of others, but these come to mind because they are my friends and neighbors in the book world. Logan Pearsall Smith wrote sparkling brief thoughts in a little book called "Trivia," which has always been delightful reading.

THE JOY OF VICTORY
What made his victory sweet to him—

His neighbors' praises and their cheers?
Not so. The struggle black and grim.
The failures of his empty years.
The old hopes that had come and gone.

The oft-remembered bump and fall
That stopped him as he journeyed on.
And he had won in spite of all.

What was it made his victory sweet—

The gold and glamor of success?
Not so. 'Twas yesterday's defeat:
It was a bygone year's distress.
That he had stood on failure's coast.

With joy at last he could recall.
This was the thought that cheered him most:
That he had won in spite of all.

County History Society Of Cincinnati

The notes on the Rev. Robert McMordie and the Upper Marsh Creek Presbyterian Church are continued at this time.

In 1762 the Rev. Robert McMordie received a call to the Hanover Presbyterian Church, located in what is now Dauphin County, Pennsylvania, which he accepted. He remained with this congregation for about two years, then resigned and returned to his farm in Cumberland Township, York County (now Adams), Pennsylvania. From this time until his death some thirty-two years later, his name appears on lists of subscribers contributing for the maintenance of Upper Marsh Creek Church. He often supplied the pulpit there, although members of his immediate family attended Lower Marsh Creek Church.

According to Presbytery records Rev. McMordie was, in 1768, sent, in company with Rev. John Elder, Rev. John Steel, and Rev. Joseph Tate, to the Second Presbytery of Philadelphia. Under the authority of that body he (Rev. McMordie) went south in 1769. In 1772 he was sent to Virginia and North Carolina. Apparently these were missionary journeys.

Served As Chaplain
During the war of the American Revolution the Rev. Mr. McMordie served as a chaplain. His first tour of duty was with the First Pennsylvania Brigade. His appointment as chaplain to this body of troops was on the recommendation of General Arthur St. Clair. Later he served in the same capacity with the Eleventh Pennsylvania Regiment. He was in active service from 1776 to 1780.

In 1783, as an officer in the Continental Army, the Rev. Robert McMordie became a charter member of the Order (or Society) of the Cincinnati. This organization is considered, even in this day and age, one of the two most exclusive orders of chivalry in the world, the other being the Order of the Garter.

Membership Is Limited
Membership in the Order of the Cincinnati is strictly limited to the eldest son of each generation bearing the family name, in a straight line of descent from the original member. The name of "McMordie" has not appeared on the rolls of the organization since the death of the Rev. Robert McMordie in 1796. His eldest son, Francis McMordie, was eligible for membership on the death of his father, but apparently never availed himself of the privilege.

Adams County should be proud of the fact that at least three charter members of this society are buried within her borders. It is a mark of distinction, second to none in this country.

After the close of the war the Rev. McMordie made, in 1784, one more missionary journey to the south. On his return, insofar as can be determined from the still existing records, he lived on his plantation in Cumberland Township and supplied the pulpits of the various Presbyterian congregations in the locality as his services were required.

Apparently a number of causes contributed to the dissension between the Upper Marsh Creek congregation and the McMordie family. In 1780 an unfortunate difference of opinion between Jane McMordie, the daughter of the Rev. Robert McMordie and later the wife of Quintain Armstrong, widened the rift already in existence.

Some Bitter Feelings
Prior to this, in 1765, some bitter feelings between the Old and New Sides continued, after the apparent healing of the breach in the Presbyterian Church, to cause trouble in the Presbytery of Donegal. Synod, thinking the case hopeless, dissolved that Presbytery (Donegal), erecting out of it the Presbyteries of Carlisle and Lancaster. The Old Side members of Donegal, some seven in number, including the Rev. McMordie, refused to be disposed of in this manner. They still styled themselves the "Presbytery of Donegal." For this they were "pronounced no longer members of synod."

In 1768 the seven clergymen "earnestly and humbly applied" to be again received by synod. The Presbytery of Donegal was again reconstituted, and the dissenting ministers were allowed to join any Presbytery they choose. Four of Mr. McMordie's former companions protested against this procedure, but McMordie accepted the order of synod.

TRUJILLO IN 28TH YEAR OF DICTATORSHIP

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—This prosperous Caribbean island republic headed into the 28th year of the era of Trujillo Friday with its ruler still in unchallengeable control.

The boss is Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo Molina, 67-year-old "Benefactor of the Fatherland," as his Congress has dubbed him.

Trujillo not only keeps a tight grip on one of the world's most durable dictatorships, but seems to command at least respect among his country's four million people.

There seems to be no organized opposition, or else it doesn't dare show itself.

The generalissimo, a firm friend of the U.S. and bitterly anti-Communist, maintains that he has the overwhelming backing of his people and works tirelessly in pushing public works and plans designed to maintain the nation's high standard of prosperity.

Seized Power In 1930
Rafael Trujillo seized power in a military coup May 16, 1930, and started rebuilding a hurricane-wrecked, poverty-stricken land. Today he is proud that this nation owes no foreign debts and long has stood on its own feet economically.

Trujillo is well aware that his government is known to the world as a dictatorship. But he insists that Dominicans can and do enjoy all the fundamental freedoms.

He has told newsmen they can travel the length and breadth of this 19,129-square-mile nation and he doubts they will find any signs of opposition.

Trujillo went Thursday to the western part of the country, which shares the Caribbean island of Hispaniola with smaller Haiti, to open a new 10-million-dollar highway.

On the trip, thousands of women and children rushed out of their homes to cheer him.

Two Druze Leaders Confer In Beirut
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Two Druze leaders whose tribesmen have been warring in the mountains during Lebanon's weeklong riots, were expected to sit down to peace talks today.

Government forces restored calm in this strife-torn capital to such a degree that Parliament was summoned to meet today and officials hoped the cooling off would extend to the mountains.

The Druze armistice could mean an important victory for pro-Western President Camille Chamoun over opposition forces trying to unseat him.

One of the Druze leaders, Emir Majid Arslan, has been a long-time supporter of Chamoun and a member of the Lebanese cabinet. Arslan's tribesmen have dealt a beating to the Druze force commanded by Kamal Jumblatt, head of the Lebanese Socialist party. Jumblatt has been one of the most outspoken opposition leaders.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The cops were skeptical when Don Brown called to say he had a snake in his cupboard. But the policeman sent to the house was not skeptical. He described it as yellow, about 4 to 5 feet long, species unknown. The two men killed it with a shovel.

CHESS AND ARMIES

Intellectual Value Of Chess Debatable — Poker Is Not Endorsed For Children

SINCE THE SPUTNIKS, Americans have a passion for comparing our educational and military scheme of things with those of the Soviets.

If some educator solemnly mentions Russian children's interest and mental skill in chess, sooner than pronto someone wants to know why chess is not taught American children.

Let England announce a withdrawal of an army division from NATO forces in West Germany, and the question immediately arises: How many Russian soldiers are in East Germany?

With the reorganization of America's Defense Department comes the query as to whether or not the Russian Armed Forces are unified along the lines the White House suggests.

Let us attempt to dispose of these three questions briefly.

AS FOR CHESS, it is no threat to America! It takes most chess players too long to plan the next move.

Compared to chess, one could brief a better case for poker as a juvenile exercise for assuming future responsibilities in world affairs. Good poker players are necessarily quick and decisive.

With deuces and one-eyed jacks wild in a dealer's choice of seven-card-peak, there is enough confusion of odds to match most modern international situations. Thus, for current diplomacy, American poker is perhaps better than Russia's chess.

Do not, repeat not, consider these remarks an endorsement of penny-ante poker, elementary straight-draw, for inclusion in elementary schools.

Actually, if you want your child to sharpen his little wits by pondering black squares and chess men, play him evenings until he can beat you. In some cases, speaking from experience, that will not require many evenings.

RUSSIAN FORCES in East Germany can not so lightly be discussed.

America gives no publicity to American Forces in West Germany. The Russians have even less to say about their own corresponding troop dispositions.

Nevertheless, European sources credit the Russians with twenty-two Infantry and Armored Divisions in East Germany. Supporting units increase the total to about 400,000 soldiers.

Red naval strength in Europe is divided between the Black Sea and the Baltic. The Russian homeland is so close to East Germany that most of her air strength is likewise based within her own borders.

Such heavy, forward commitment of ground troops suggest Russia expects to fight a non-atomic war in Europe as long as possible before taking recourse to nuclear weapons.

Since the NATO countries have made it clear to Russia that they will not hesitate to make immediate use of small atomic bursting charges, initially limited to battlefields, from the very beginning of ground warfare in Europe, many observers think this atomic threat is the only true restraint on Russia. Thus the numbers of men on the western side of the line are not so important as their firepower and potential air and navy support.

Such thinking apparently entered into a recent English decision to transfer some of her share of the NATO Forces back to England.

RUSSIA, since World War II, appears to be as dissatisfied with her Department of Defense setup as the Americans have been with theirs.

Early in 1946 they lumped all their men in uniform into one department: The Ministry of the Armed Forces. It appears to have been just about what the White House is recommending to Congress now, except more so.

For reasons best known to themselves, the Soviets didn't like this arrangement. In 1950 they split the Ministry of the Armed Forces into a War Ministry and a Navy Ministry, retaining an overriding "Defense Ministry." The functions of the last mentioned appear to be for political controls rather than command in military matters.

This last shift left the Red air force and the army hitched in double harness within the War Ministry. Thus, Russia today has their equivalent of what United States had before there was a Department of Defense in Washington.

Parallel with the channels of strategic and tactical commands, the Russians have echelons of Communist Party members who are directly responsible to the Political Directorate for Armed Forces which is in the "Defense Ministry."

All this suggests the Russians have far greater dispersion of command responsibilities and thereby retain the makings of more top-side confusion than Americans now have or have ever had in the Pentagon.

EXPECT RECORD FOR MILE LAP

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — One minute flat for a lap around the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway — 150 miles an hour on a track built for 75 — was only three-quarters of a second away today as time trials opened for the 42nd 500-mile race May 30.

If predicted rain held off, there was a good chance that Pat Flaherty's 2-year-old qualifying record of 146.056 m.p.h. for one lap would be broken several times on the 49-year-old track.

The 1956 race winner's mark had been bettered three times in practice and Ed Elisian of Oakland, Calif., missed the magic minute, which had been thought to be years away, by only 75-100 second Friday.

The 200-pound ex-gunners' mate wrestled his No. 5 Zink Special around the asphalt and brick circuit in 1:00.25, or 148.148 miles an hour. A short time earlier Dick Rathmann of Miami in a McNamara Special was clocked at 1:01.21, or 147.010 m.p.h.

Eastern League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The value of good fielding in helping a pitcher settle down was readily apparent last night to southpaw Art Hirst as he led the Williamsport Grays to a 3-0 win over the Albany Senators in an Eastern League encounter.

Hirst allowed the Senators five singles in the first four innings. But three times when he appeared in trouble his teammates pulled off double plays. That was all he needed to settle down and bank the Senators the rest of the way.

Lancaster could have used some good pitching and fielding last night as it dropped a 1-4 decision to Reading. Allentown got some good relief work from Bill Lore to score 5-3 over York. The Binghamton at Springfield game was rained out.

HOGAN LEADING SNEAD FESTIVAL

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Two hard hitting 160-pounders, the experienced Ben Hogan and the young Gary Player from South Africa, go out today for the third round in the Sam Snead Golf Festival with the veteran in front by two strokes.

The 22-year-old Player put on a brilliant run for the lead Friday with a 65 in back of a 66 on the par 70 course.

But Hogan, 45, in a form reminiscent of the years when he ruled the golfing world, came in behind him with 64. It was a stroke lower than his opening salvo of 65. Hogan's score of 129 halfway through the 72-hole tourney is only a stroke higher than in 1950 when he shot a winning 259 total. At the time, it equaled the lowest competitive score anywhere for 72 holes. Mike Souchak since has lowered it to 257 on a Texas course.

Snead Drops Back
Snead, who had tied off with Player also a stroke in back of Hogan, dropped back another with a 66. Although he had an eagle three on the 525-yard 17th and four birdies, Snead was his customary erratic self and went over par twice.

The hot golf of Hogan, Player and Snead proved too much for Stan Mosel, 26-year-old from Essex Fells, N. J., who had matched Hogan's first round of 65. Mosel scrambled to a 73 on the second 18 holes and plummeted into a four-way tie for eighth place.

ERROR WINS FOR CHICAGO CUBS

CHICAGO (AP) — San Francisco's Willie Mays just can't win all by himself.

The fabulous Mays Friday hit a three-run homer to launch an apparent Giant victory over the Chicago Cubs. Then he cut loose with a ninth-inning throw from center field which should have prevented an eventual 6-5 Cub triumph.

Rookie catcher Bob Schmidt muffed Mays' throw to the plate and the Cubs got their winning run as successful pinch-hitter Bobby Adams bowled across from second on Walls' single.

Mays' 10th homer came in a five-run Giant sixth and gave him a share of the National League RBI lead with teammate Daryl Spencer at 28. It also kept him in front as league runs scored leader with 29.

Willie accepted the Giant setback in his usual calm fashion. He said his 400-foot homer smash on Taylor Phillips' first pitch was "just about as good a clout as I've had this season."

Mays said nothing about his throw which Schmidt failed to snag although it would have had the runner by about five feet.

Fairfield High School (5-3) snapped the four-game winning streak of Delone Catholic's baseball team (5-8) with a 7-6 triumph at McSherrystown Friday afternoon.

The winners held a 7-3 lead going into the last inning when the Squires rallied for three runs and had the tying run on third base when Miller, a pinchhitter for Bill Solomon, grounded out for the third out.

Russian Cage Team Will Visit States

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Basketball champions of Russia will visit the United States next February and will play at least six games with teams of the National Industrial Basketball League.

James W. Vickers, sponsor of the Wichita NIBL entry and new league president, said tentative plans call for the Russian men's and women's teams to arrive in New York early in February. They probably will play their first game there, Vickers said. Opponents have not been selected for the first games.

Oldest Ball Player Honored On Friday

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bummy Hoy, who started playing major league baseball here before the turn of the century, got some help Friday in celebrating his 96th birthday.

Hoy, believed to be the oldest living ex-major leaguer, was honored by the Ballplayers of Yesterday at Crosley Field ceremonies before start of the Cincinnati-Milwaukee game Friday night. Hoy received a plaque and telegram from Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, the presidents of the two major leagues, Ty Cobb and others.

YANK TENNISISTS LEAD

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The United States needs only a victory today in the doubles against Venezuela to advance into the second round of the American Zone Davis Cup tennis competition. Ham Richardson, former Rhodes scholar now living in Washington, D. C., and young Barry Mackay of Dayton, Ohio, gave the U. S. a 2-0 lead Friday with straight set victories in the opening singles.

MAY QUESTION WORLD RECORD ONE MILE RUN

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Herb Elliott, the wonder from Down Under, has a world record mile run in the hopper today but there's some doubt that he'll ever get it in the books.

The slender young Australian ran the distance in a stunning 3:57.8 in the Coliseum Relays Friday night, beating the recognized world record held by fellow Aussie John Landy by two-tenths of a second.

But there was grave suspicion that the International Athletic skeptical eye at Elliott's magnificent performance because of the pace-setting job done by an unheralded Texas runner, Drew Dunlap.

Dunlap, not even listed on the official program, jogged into the lead at the start and stayed there until just after the half-mile point — when he suddenly stepped out of the race.

Experts Are Astonished
Track experts said they were astonished that officials should even think of submitting Elliott's time for consideration. But meet referee Larry Moustun implied that's what will be done.

Percy Cerutti, Elliott's coach, said firmly that his 20-year-old student's record should be sanctioned. Elliott said he'd like to see England's Derek Ibbotson recognized as the world record holder. Ibbotson ran a 3:57.2 last year but the time has not been recognized — although it still could be — because of pacing.

VOTE JUNE 3 ON DODGERS' SITE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Political figures have had their turns at bat. Now it is up to the voters to decide whether the Los Angeles Dodgers get Chavez Ravine for a stadium site.

A state legislative committee wound up a hearing Friday on the proposed contract between the city and the Dodgers for the site. The proposal will be submitted for approval at the June 3 election.

Opponents of the contract, including some members of the city council, contend it is one-sided in favor of the Dodgers. Under its terms, the Dodgers would trade Wrigley Field for the 300-acre-plus city-owned ravine about a mile from the downtown section.

Mayor Norris Poulson, long a leader in the fight to bring major league baseball to Los Angeles, was asked if he thought the Dodgers would leave if he voters turn down the contract.

"I'm sure they will," he told the committee. "And we'll be the laughing stock of the United States."

POET LOVES WHAT'S LOVABLE

REDLANDS, Calif. (AP) — "You have got to love what's lovable, and hate what's hateful. It takes brains to see the difference."

White-haired poet Robert Frost, at 84 a living legend in the world of letters, was telling a reporter his views on life.

"I've waged a lover's quarrel with the world ever since I felt old enough to woo it with dash. I was stodgy only when I was young."

"I never dared be radical for fear it would make me conservative when I was old."

New Englander Frost, two-time Pulitzer Prize winner whose works command long passages in such reference books as "Who's Who," was visiting here with friends. He took time out before leaving on a lecture tour to talk on many subjects with Mirror-News writer Carter Barber.

On poets:
"Poets are like baseball pitchers. Both have their moments. The intervals are the tough things. Modern poets talk against business, poor things, but all of us write for money. Beginners are subjected to trial by market, poor things."

On religion:
"God seems to me to be something which wants us to win. In tennis. Or poetry. Or marriage. Of course, somebody must lose. That's when you step up to the spiritual plane. I'm like a modern car in religious matters. I may look convertible. But I'm a hard-top. I'm working on a couplet now."

"Forgive, O Lord, my little jokes on Thee."

"And I'll forgive Thy great big one on me."

Being born does he mean?

Frost only shrugs.

BEIRUT TEEMS WITH TENSION, WAR THREATS

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

BEIRUT, Lebanon (P) — The assassination of an obscure local editor has pitted brother against brother in this little Switzerland of the Middle East and has brought the region's cold war to the boiling point.

Here one finds the spectacle of Moslem against Christian, Moslem against Moslem, Christian against Christian and the mountain Druze tribes against Christians and each other.

Here also is the Middle East cold war in capsule. Pro-Nasserite battles anti-Nasserite, pro-Western supporter of the pro-Western government fights anti-Westerners who would like to bring the government down.

Internecine warfare rages between remnants of the old pan-Syrian nationalist movement and the underground Communists. The Reds themselves eagerly abet Syrian and Egyptian agents in the subversion and exploitation of the local political situation.

Pro-Nasser Editor
The slain editor — Nasib Matni — had been pro-Nasser. He also had echoed Syrian pro-Sovietism to the extent that he believed Russia assisted Arab nationalism.

When it came to Lebanon, Matni, a Maronite Christian, stood for complete independence as opposed to membership in any federation.

No one professes to know who killed Matni, but his murder was a handy excuse for many elements here to take off on a binge of violence.

The government may ride out this particular storm. But there are more storms to come, because Lebanon is an obstacle to the goals of extreme Arab nationalism.

The situation which exists here today has been building up for more than two years, during which the nation has been under severe Syrian-Egyptian-Communist pressures.

The government's policy apparently is to contain the riots, arson and bombings, and to avoid bloodshed. With this goal in mind, security forces attempt to confine the violence to the areas of origin instead of using harsher measures that could bring on a dread of full scale war between Moslems and Christians.

EX-SKI CHAMP MURDERS WIFE

OAKLAND, Calif. (P) — Sigurd Ulland, former national ski jumping champion, shot his wife to death with a rifle Thursday night, police said.

"I did the wrong thing, I just killed my wife," the 49-year-old operator of ski equipment business here was quoted by police.

Don Le Strange.

Le Strange went to the Ullands' $100,000 home when Catherine Ulland, 54, called police and screamed, "My husband is crazy and is trying to kill me!"

Le Strange found Mrs. Ulland's body in the bathroom, a bullet through her chest. He said Ulland was standing just outside the bathroom window, which had a bullet hole through it.

Ulland told police he drove to the ski shop for the 30-30 rifle.

Mrs. Ulland's sister, Edith Guthridge of nearby San Leandro, said Ulland had been very tense recently and underwent hospital treatment Monday.

The Ulland's son, Sigurd Jr., 15, was asleep when the shooting occurred.

Police booked him for investigation.

Fined For Stealing Inspection Stickers

HAZLETON, Pa. (P) — John Fogarty, a service station employee here, was fined $50 and costs Wednesday on charges of stealing and selling state automobile inspection stickers.

Alderman Amandus Kirchdoerfer imposed the fine after State Trooper Rudy Balas testified that Fogarty had admitted taking the stickers.

NEWHOUSE IS IN CUSTODY; GAVE SELF UP

FARMINGTON, Mo. (P) — Billy Glenn Newhouse, wanted for the killing of his uncle and the kidnapping of three persons, gave himself up late Thursday.

One of the kidnap victims was stabbed. Another, his 17-year-old former girl friend, said she was assaulted.

Newhouse, 21, who has a long record of arrests, refused to make a statement.

He is accused of the gunshotslaying of his uncle, James Huskey, 58, of nearby Desloge, the robbery, kidnapping and stabbing of a filling station operator and the kidnapping of Linda Reid Rawlins and Archie Moore Jr., 25.

Body Was Found
The body of Huskey, shot four times through the head, was found after authorities received word Newhouse had boasted of killing him Tuesday night.

Mrs. Rawlins, a divorcee, and Moore said they were forced to accompany Newhouse in the car of his slain uncle from Flat River to Memphis, Tenn. They drove on to Clarksdale, Miss., before reporting to officers.

They were with Newhouse when George Tubbs, 29, a Poplar Bluff filling station attendant, was robbed and forced to accompany them.

The four stopped in a restaurant at Newport, Ark., and Tubbs was stabbed after he threw coffee in his captor's face and broke away. He staggered from the restaurant and was rushed to a hospital.

WILL USE TAPE IN ARSON TRIAL

TRENTON, N.J. (P) — The stage was set today for a prosecution attempt to introduce a tape recording it says contains Elber Cooper Lucas' spoken confession to the March 1956, St. Mary's Cathedral fire.

Lucas is on trial, charged with killing Msgr. Richard T. Crean and two housekeepers who died in the fire.

The alleged confession is the key to the prosecution's case. John Dimon, Lucas, attorney, says his client denies setting the fire and doesn't remember making a confession.

A series of psychiatrists and psychologists testified Thursday about Lucas' mental condition, a key point in the defense. Lucas was arrested in December, 1956, and spent 14 months in Trenton State Hospital after that.

Two defense psychiatrists testified they examined Lucas in January and August, 1957, and found him suffering from schizophrenia. Both said he was suggestible.

Dr. Everett A. Larsson, a psychiatrist at Trenton State Hospital, testified Lucas did not know right from wrong in January, 1957.

Dr. A. M. Ornstein, a neurologist at the University of Pennsylvania, said Lucas knew right from wrong, but acted under compulsions which prevented him from conforming to those standards.

VIETNAME, Laos (U) — Election returns from rural areas today continued to show Parliamentary election victories for the Leftist Neo Lao Haksat Party, successors to the pro-communist Pathet Lao rebels.

The party picked up three more seats in Luang Prabang Province to boost its total to eight. It may win one more when final returns come in from all 21 contests in the May 4 balloting.

Although nine seats represent only a small segment of Lao's 6-member Parliament, the good showing by Neo Lao is expected to give it an important voice in the politics of this tiny country on the border of Red China.

WARSAW (U) — Bad weather continued to plague central Poland Friday night. Violent winds hit the Rawa Mazowiecka district, seriously injuring 15 persons and destroying 18 houses. Nearly 100 buildings were damaged.

such action without knowing her whereabouts. I do not know where she is."

Sonali was reported in Paris when Rossellini obtained a legal separation in Rome from Ingrid Bergman last Nov. 7. Since then Rossellini has stayed out of public view most of the time while seeking to have his marriage to the Swedish actress annulled.

TOKYO (U) — The Japanese government today told the Soviet Union its possession of nuclear weapons poses a constant threat and cause of insecurity to the Japanese people.

HIS STAND ON LITTLE ROCK IN ELECTION ISSUE

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (U) — On a September day last year in a race-troubled Little Rock, Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) took his political life in hand and counseled moderation and compromise in the Central High School integration crisis.

It was Hays' conviction there should be a peaceful settlement of the explosive issue along Christian principles. Hays holds high church office as president of the Southern Baptist Convention.

While Hays' peace efforts failed and federal troops occupied the school, the congressman — church leader had no regrets over his advocacy of compromise.

His Stand Is Issue

"I am not a hater," he said. "If my district wants a hater, I am not the man. When the time comes to choose, I vote the way my conscience tells me."

Hays will get his district's verdict this summer at the end of a primary campaign in which his stand is an issue.

He said he and Mrs. Hays decided when he first came to Congress in 1934 that they would "rely upon the simple, fundamental truths we had learned from a Christian environment."

Good Speaker

While a religious man and leader of 8½ million Baptists, Hays is not an austere man. He is regarded as one of the wittiest men in Congress and probably its best story teller. He is in demand as an after dinner speaker.

Hays neither drinks, smokes or swears. Now 59, he is a tireless worker, keeping up with heavy correspondence from his district, from his Baptists, attending committee meetings and making speeches.

Room For Religion

Hays conceived the idea that Baptists around the world should actively promote world peace. Since there are 500,000 Baptists in the Soviet Union, he decided that would be a good place to start.

So he flew to Moscow to meet Baptist leaders there and to address the Moscow Baptist church congregation. It was his belief, he said, that some good must come from a face-to-face meeting of religious people of the two countries. He is advocating more such meetings.

Hays says there is room in poli-his daughter and grandchildren in a century-old castle, his daughter Mary says.

The 72-year-old poet was granted an Italian entry visa last week and has booked passage on the Italian liner Cristoforo Colombo, Mary said Friday night. Pound was released recently from a Washington mental hospital after the U. S. government dropped treason charges against him for broadcasts he made from Italy during World War II.

SHIMODA, Japan (U) — Two modern U. S. warships played the part of Commodore Matthew C. Perry's "Black Ships" today in ceremonies marking his visit here 105 years ago that opened Japan to the modern world.

The aircraft carrier Hornet and the amphibious attack cargo ship Merrick rode at anchor as a parade, a concert, fireworks, a baseball game and a beauty contest were held during the annual Black Ship Festival.

HATFIELD GETS GOP NOMINATION

PORTLAND, Ore. (U) — Gov. Robert Holmes won Democratic renomination in Oregon's primary election Friday. He faces challenge from Republican Secretary of State Mark Hatfield, who at 35 aspires to be the state's youngest governor.

Rep. Walter Norblad, in the House 13 years, won a 2 to 1 victory for Republican renomination. All other members of Oregon's six-member congressional delegation are Democrats.

Norblad, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, will have as his November opponent Democratic Atty. Gen. Robert Thornton, who easily won his party's nomination by a 3½ to 1 margin over Don Metheny, an onion grower.

While Holmes, a 49-year-old former radio station manager, rolled up a better than 2 to 1 margin on the Democratic side, Hatfield held a 3 to 2 margin over his nearest opponent for the GOP nomination.

Ideas, plans, arrangements and purposes of all exhibits were original with the student. Certain specifications as to size, materials and expense involved were controlled by regulations set up by the school. Judging on scientific thought, originality of concept, thoroughness, ingenuity, technical skill and workmanship and dramatic value was done by Dr. Walter Q. Bunderman, chairman of the department of chemistry, John Harris High School, Harrisburg; Charles Rutschky, chairman, department of science, William Penn Senior High School, York, and William C. Darrah, department of biology, Gettysburg College.

Home Economics And Art

The home economics displays included exhibits of craft projects in aluminum and copper, machine embroidery, rug making; a clothing exhibit by the boys; home decorations with draperies, pierced lamp shades and a child's party table setting. Mrs. Virginia Sheely is home "ec" teacher. The usual clothing exhibit was omitted for the first time this year, as all of the clothing made was displayed at the recent fashion show. Students are responsible for the cost of materials in this department and thus the project becomes the property of the student when completed.

In the art department, which is headed by Donald C. Sheely, there were displays of work by the Seventh, Eighth and Ninth grades covering a wide range of crayon and water color works of flowers, animals, scenery, religious and motion subjects. These are a part of the regular course requirements.

Fred Hahn Wins

The industrial arts department exhibits represented the work of students in grades Seven through Twelve. The Ninth grade had on display samples of mechanical and architectural drawing done by them during the year. In Grade Seven the projects are prescribed by the teacher and selected by the student in two areas of work, leather craft and metal work. Grade Eight operates the same and in Grade Nine the student leaves the shop for courses in mechanical drawing and blue print reading. In the senior high school, the student selects a course of study to develop recreational and vocational activities as well as to explore industry in terms of raw materials, processes and operations, products and occupations.

Prizes awarded were donated by I. H. Crouse and Sons, George M. Zerling Hardware and Appliances and the Littlestown Hardware and Foundry Co., Inc. Furnishings used on the beds and other furniture were supplied by Community Furniture and Appliance and by Wolf's Furniture, Two Taverns.

NEW YORK (U) — Zsa Zsa Gabor has signed to star next fall opposite Franchot Tone in "Rules of the Game," a drama by Luigi Pirandello.

It will be her first White Way stage appearance.

NEW YORK (U) — Karen Lee, aged 10, has a different kind of Broadway contract. It is a "run of the measles" pact for performance in the hit show, "The Music Man," while Barbara Travis, 11, convalesces from the juvenile ailment.

Your Vote—On Primary Day—Can Put End To "Boss" Rule

Primary elections are the most potent weapon of the bosses to perpetuate their power. Only through controlled primaries can the will of the people be frustrated. "Machine" politicians of the Lawrence-Leader type depend upon primary results to continue their powerful grip on the election machinery of the State.

But — your vote — the free-will exercise of your American Heritage can destroy — now and forever — this sordid type of machine politics. "Davey" Lawrence — and his hand-picked candidate for the Senate — rely on the indifference of the uncontrolled vote to maintain their power.

Nowhere else but in America does the voice of freedom ring. And this freedom — from boss rule — is more powerful than an atomic bomb in destroying the power of the bosses.

Your vote — on primary day, May 20 — will be your answer to these "bosses." That's why it is imperative that all qualified voters exercise their right to vote for the candidates of their choice — not that of the bosses — in the election of a Senator, a Governor and other offices at stake.

Your first duty is to vote. Don't let weather, threats or any other business interfere with your determination to go to the polls. By your vote you will nominate the officials of YOUR CHOICE.

End bossism . . . Bring back honesty, integrity and your right to choose those who will represent you . . .

Your ballot is the voice of free America . . . Use it . . .

Good Litter Management In Brooder House Very Important, Says Zettle

By FRANK S. ZETTLE
Adams County Farm Agent

Good litter management in the brooder house is important in promoting sturdy chick growth. Warm, damp, filthy litter may be a favorable medium for disease development. Dry litter is more likely to be clean and odorless, since dried droppings themselves are practically without odor.

Various types of litter are satisfactorily used in the brooder house. The coarse types permit droppings to fall through to the floor when the litter is shaken or stirred. With the types of finer texture and greater absorptive powers the droppings are enveloped and dried through stirring. The most common forms of litter in use are straw, shavings, ground corn cobs, peat moss, sugar cane pulp, sawdust, and chaff.

A routine of stirring the litter daily or several times each week will have the effect of diluting the extent to which the droppings can make for conditions of filth, spread of disease, and decreasing the life of the litter. If stirring the litter is not enough to remove the droppings from the surface, it may be that a deeper bed of litter should be provided.

Clean, Dry Litter
Clean litter is dry litter. When the litter in the brooder house becomes damp or very dirty it is time to make a change.

Farmers are not doing as well as some people seem to think. Several matters affect farm income. Allowance must be made for these in properly interpreting farm income figures.

The net cash income to all farm operators was lower in 1957 than it was in 1956. This was so even though the government payments to agriculture were higher. This cash income drop is shown in U. S. Department of Agriculture reports and the President's Economic Report of January.

Farmers paid more for what they bought in 1957. And they got a little more for what they sold. But their gross income was the same. As a result, their cash income was lower.

Improvement In 1957

The value of crop and livestock inventories on farms was higher at the end of 1957 than at the end of 1956. The addition of this value to the farm cash income gives a calculated total income. This was somewhat better for 1957 than for 1956.

This total income was $90 higher per person on farms last year. But there were 8 per cent fewer people on farms in 1957 than in 1956. So, those on farms had better incomes—partly because there were fewer of them.

Part of the farmer's income was not earned on the farm. In recent years, farm people have earned $1 off the farm for each $2 earned on the farm. Over a fourth of the nation's farmers are classed as part-time farmers. This means they work off the farm one hundred days or more during the year. Each year more farm people are earning some income off the farm.

Many acres in Pennsylvania are not being utilized at all at present and many more are not being used to their top potential.

On many of these acres, a flock of sheep would do an excellent job of utilizing forage and add some much appreciated additional farm income.

Places where additional sheep could help to utilize forage include:

1. Acres not idle.
 2. Part-time farms.
 3. Sheep added to present farm program to utilize more completely and efficiently the feed supply.
- The possible income will, of course, vary with efficiency of breeding, feeding, and management. In 1957 the average income per ewe bred in commercial flocks in the Keystone Shepherd's Project was $26 for lambs and wool. This ranged from a high of $36.17 to a low of $14.22.

Big Sheep Problems

It must be admitted that one of the big problems in sheep production in Pennsylvania is that of fences. However, a well-managed flock of ewes should soon pay the cost of fence building.

Pennsylvania now has about

"Bathmere", Attractive And Compact

Rooms Six
Bedrooms Three
Closets Seven
Cubage 27,900 ft.
Dimensions:
House 43' x 32'

Attractively designed and presenting a neat compact appearance, "The Bathmere," presented today by the Home of the Week Plan Service, has six good sized rooms.

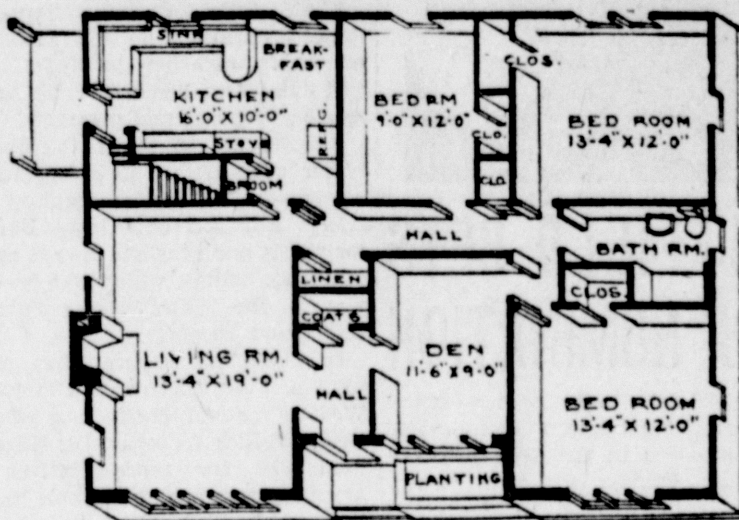

A combination finish is very well suited to a house of this style. For "something different" in combination finishes you can take your cue from the accompanying illustration and use brick and fieldstone. The touches of wood and colored roofing help to give a distinctive appearance to the house exterior.

Measuring 43 by 32 feet, this one-story house has a cubage of 27,900 feet. It can be built on a 70 foot lot. If you plan to have a garage you'll need more land, of course.

Attractive Rooms

Two most attractive rooms in the house are the living room and the den. Both owe much of their decorative appeal to the abundance of windows. The type of plantings you select and the care that you give them will have a great deal of influence on the appearance of the den and the house exterior as well.

261,000 head of breeding ewes. This number could be increased to 1,000,000 head without cutting down numbers of other livestock species. Present sheep income is around $6,500,000. Sheep numbers could be increased to the extent that the possible gross income could go to $25,000,000 or more.

If you're looking for a medium-sized home with lots of sleeping space you'll like today's plan because it has three good-sized bedrooms. Each of these rooms has good lighting and ventilation in addition to generous storage space.

Should you need another bedroom you can use the den for this purpose. It can, of course, do double duty as a den and guest room.

No dining room proper is provided for in this plan—but the living room is more than large

The WEEDERS GUIDE

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. (AP) — As if the sowing and transplanting season were not busy enough for every gardener, lavish spring rainfall has pushed most established lawns into rapid and luxuriant growth. Usually once a week mowing is enough; this season, it is cut to about five days if the man behind the mower doesn't want the job of raking clippings.

Actually, until hot weather sets in, most lawn grasses may be clipped short — one and one-half inches, for instance. But when the rains become less frequent and the sun begins to beat down, it is a wise gardener who adjusts his mower blades higher. The ideal summer height is two and one-half inches from the ground. This longer grass affords shade and protection to the roots, discourages sun-loving weeds and also helps keep some of the moisture in the ground from drying out.

Spring rains have gotten the garden off to a wonderfully good start. But they have also been enjoyed by the weeds. A lot of the weeds go quietly away under frequent mowing, but others just spread out and slip under the mower blades uncut. Selective weed killers, sprayed on, are effective in handling these — the liquid chemicals stay on the broad leaves of the undesirable weed but roll harmlessly off the narrow-bladed lawn grasses. I have a fairly large lawn area and use, instead of a sprayer, a little plastic cane enough to serve two uses. If the dining set is placed in the further section of the living room serving meals will be very convenient.

Large Kitchen

The kitchen itself is larger than that found in many homes being built today. In addition to its array of working counter, cabinets and appliances the kitchen also contains a roomy breakfast nook.

A service entrance provides direct access to the yard from the kitchen. Stairs to the basement lead down from the kitchen, too.

Both the laundry and the heating plant must be installed in the basement of this house. The former should be placed under the kitchen or bath; the latter under the living room.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost.

which I fill with a solution of a 24-D solution and treat individual dandelions, plantains, lamb's quarter, dock and thistle. It's a longer job, but it doesn't set back the lawn grasses in any way.

Still other chores to pull the homegardener from the sowing and transplanting activities include spraying and pruning. It has been my experience that regular, early spraying of plants which are particularly attractive to pests — roses, lupine, hollyhock, and phlox are just a sampling — keeps the chewing and sucking bugs from getting a head start. Last year, aphids covered the spirea — as well as attacked the plants where I usually expect them — but regular and early spraying with a mixture of a rotenone and nicotine sulphate spray has eliminated them quickly and they have not returned. Roses, of course, attract every passing pest from lice now to beetles later, so a good all-purpose rose spray is a must.

Early blooming shrubs should be pruned as the blossoms fade. Lilacs should have their withering flower heads cut off to assure better bloom next season. The late

Leader Purchases York County Farm

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Leader is buying a 100-acre farm in Dover Twp., York County, for $50,500.

The farm will replace the two tracts he used for raising chickens prior to his election in 1954. One tract, 89 acres, was sold a year ago for $15,500, the governor said Friday, and the nearby 28-acre farm is up for sale.

Leader also disclosed that he recently purchased 16 Sardinian donkeys, imported from Italy, for use as pets for his three children and their friends. He first saw the animals at Disneyland in California two years ago.

tulips should receive the same treatment as their earlier blooming sister blooms: have their heads snipped off just below the point where seed heads would form, so their strength can go into next year's bloom even now being formed underground.

Perennials in the border will appreciate a feeding of a quick acting fertilizer as a sort of spring tonic — an easy way to apply it is in liquid form. My own favorite method is to distribute the granular fertilizer just before a light cultivation of the soil is undertaken, and thus it is possible to mix the plant food into the soil at the same time young week seeds are uprooted with a cultivator or hoe.

Sets New World Speed Record In Jet Plane Of 1,404.19 MPH

By GENE HANDSAKER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was a day of both glittering triumph and embarrassment for Air Force Capt. Walter Wayne Irwin.

First, he flew a jet plane Friday to a new world record speed — 1,404.19 m.p.h., 196.2 m.p.h. faster than the former mark.

The Air Force chief of staff hung a Distinguished Flying Cross on him.

Then, in an interview, he committed the innocent kind of blunder only another husband can understand. Was this, a reporter inquired, the most exciting day of his life?

"I would say so — bar none!" boomed the handsome, 34-year-old combat veteran.

"Thanks a lot!" exclaimed his pretty wife, Christine, with mock sarcasm. Flown here by the Air Force from their Novato, Calif., home for the announcement of his feat, she was thinking, no doubt, of their 1954 wedding day in Arlington, Va.

"Make that the second most exciting day!" Irwin cried as they both laughed.

Mrs. Irwin described him: "He is easy to live with, has an easy-going temperament." Of his flight she said: "I'm real proud of him."

Born in Everett, Wash., and reared in Wenatchee, he enlisted in the Air Corps in January 1942. Leaving the Air Force in '45, he flew charter flights and instructed two years for a Wenatchee air service. Then he did crop dusting and instructing at La Grande, Ore., until the Air Force recalled him in 1951.

Irwin is a flight commander of the 83rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron, Hamilton AFB, near San Francisco.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

MAILS NOTICE OF HIS DEATH

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — It was a plain-looking piece of mail from Newark.

Mrs. Virginia Nimenski received it Thursday at her home in West Wyoming, Pa. Then she called her parish priest.

The envelope, postmarked May 13, contained a rent receipt, a power of attorney, a last will and testament, a bankbook showing a balance of $125, and two keys.

The papers were dated May 13. The will was signed by Donald Clarus, 28, of Newark.

"In the event of my death all my possessions are to be sold, and the money paid to Mrs. Virginia Nimenski of West Wyoming, Pa.," the will said.

"She is the best friend that I ever had — being that I am an orphan and therefore have none of my own flesh and blood."

Mrs. Nimenski had known Clarus for about 15 years, ever since he had left a Catholic orphanage near her home.

The priest called police, who got in touch with Newark authorities. Detectives visited Clarus' one-room apartment here Thursday. They found him dead on the floor, a rifle muzzle against his throat.

Police estimated he had killed himself last Tuesday shortly after slipping the plain envelope into a mailbox.

SENSIBLE CHOICE

RED ROCK, Okla. (AP) — The Red Rock Creek Watershed Assn. has named H. H. Waters president.

Anita Dangler who is appearing on stage at the Allenberry Playhouse, Boiling Springs, in the comedy "Fallen Angels" by Noel Coward for two weeks through May 24.

9 TEEN-AGERS ARE INDICTED

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Nine teenagers were indicted Friday on charges of murder, robbery and conspiracy in the slaying of In-Ho Oh, Korean graduate student at the University of Pennsylvania.

Two others of the 11 Negro youths originally arrested in connection with the street attack on the 26-year-old Korean last month escaped indictment. Dist. Atty. Victor H. Blane indicated they would be the Commonwealth's chief witnesses at the trial of the others.

Blane has said he would seek the death penalty for the accused, who range in age from 15 to 18.

Oh was beaten to death as he went to mail a letter to his parents in Pusan, Korea. Investigators said his assailants were seeking money so they could get tickets to attend a church dance.

Mayor Richardson Dilworth has started a scholarship drive to pay all expenses of a Korean student at Penn. The drive got a $300 gift yesterday from the Delaware Conference of the Methodist Church.

FRANCE FACING SERIOUS CRISIS

PARIS (AP) — Parisians went about their business Friday, strangely unperturbed by the worst crisis in the nation's postwar history.

Crowds poured into office buildings and factories, glancing at giant headlines announcing Gen. Charles de Gaulle's willingness to assume power and the National Assembly debate on a state of emergency bill.

Many commuters in a crowded subway train preferred to read other news.

About 1,000 policemen ringed the Palais Bourbon where the National Assembly met. Few other signs of urgency were visible in the city.

The frequency of political crisis since World War II contributed heavily to the political apathy of most Frenchmen. In a crowded restaurant Thursday only two persons listened attentively to Premier Pierre Pflimlin's radio address pleading for national support. Both were American newsmen.

In contrast to the apathy of the public, the atmosphere in the massive Palais Bourbon was tense.

France's most influential morning newspaper, Le Figaro, said De Gaulle might help improve the French parliamentary system, but he should avoid any illegal action. Le Parisien Libere, a morning paper with a very large circulation, hailed the general's statement and urged him to take over the nation's destinies. It said this would quickly settle the Algerian problem.

The Negro conference is holding its annual meeting here.
